Mrs. D. J. Dean.

The death of Mrs. D. J. Dean, which occurred on Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, was not unexpected, as for several days past she has been sinking fast under a complication of pneumonia and heart failure. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Burgess, and was attended by a large number of sympathetic friends. In the absence of the Presbyterian minister, Rev. Mr. Martin conducted the services after the Episcopal rites, and the members of the Presbyterian choir, with whom she had so often sung, furnished the music.

The last sickness of Mrs. Dean was accompanied with almost no suffering and the departure of the soul was as quiet as the setting of the sun. Her life went out as it had been lived, peaceful and gentle and attended by loving hands.

Dovey Jane Andrews, daughter of John M. Andrews, was born in North Carolina in 1835, belonging to the same stock as F. H. Andrews, who recently removed from El Paso to Charlotte, N. C. She was married to Dr. Y. S. Dean in 1863, and lived in North Carolina until 1875, when they removed to Texas, settling near Rockdale. After the death of her husband she removed with her children to El Paso, where she has since resided.
