

RAILROAD MAN DIES IN GOTHAM

Col. Joseph H. Hampson was Builder of Many of the Mexican Railway Lines.

Col. Joseph H. Hampson, builder of Mexican railroads, and well known in El Paso, died in New York City on October 6, and was buried in Kansas City last Monday.

Col. Hampson built a large part of the Santa Fe road, and did his work so fast and well that pass No. 1 for a private car on that line was always issued to him, up to the time of his death. He built the road from Lordsburg, N. M., to Clifton, Ariz., and constructed the greater part of the Mexican Central. On his own account, Col. Hampson constructed a road from Mexico City to Cuernavaca, Mexico.

In his later years, he had extensive ranch holdings in Kansas.
