

Thomas J. Holland Dies in Seguin, Tex.

Haymon Krupp, president of the Volunteer Firemen's association, received a telegram yesterday announcing the death at Seguin, Texas, Friday of T. J. Holland, who was chief of the volunteer fire department 20 years ago.

Mr. Holland was for many years a resident of El Paso and was prominently identified with the business life of the city. He was a builder and contractor and was at one time associated with William Rheinheimer of the Rheinheimer Lumber company in business.

Mr. Holland died at the home of his sister in Seguin. The funeral will be held there today.