

EXILED WIDOW, 99, DIES HERE

Mrs. Sylvie Pourade, 99, died yesterday morning at 2718 San Jose. Flu was the cause of death. She was the grandmother of Alvin and Chas. Roberts of the Modern cafe.

The body is at Hartford Mortuary.

Mrs. Pourade had good health until she caught influenza a few weeks ago. Her ambition had been to live until May, when she would have been 100 years old.

Three generations survive Mrs. Pourade. They are her daughter, Mrs. Sylvia Roberts, Alvin E. Roberts, Mrs. Sylvia's son, Alvin Jr., 2½ years.

Mrs. Pourade was born in Belgium. Her husband, Antoine, was exiled to England by Napoleon III. The Pourades came to America when Mrs. Roberts was six years old.

Little Alvin, Jr., great-grandchild, was the pet of Mrs. Pourade. He loved to hear her Flemish stories. He cried because she was ill.

The Pourade family is a family of widows. Mrs. Pourade was a widow. Her three daughters and her son's wife are widows.

Mrs. Roberts, Chas. Roberts and Miss Cherrange Roberts will accompany the body to Albuquerque. There Mrs. Pourade will be buried beside her husband.
