

The Chinese Tragedy

Charlie Sue, the well known market gardener who was shamefully smashed up the Thursday night with an iron bar, died in the Sister's hospital at 11 o'clock last night, and will be buried either this evening or tomorrow morning by his fellow celestials. When the unfortunate man was lifted in to Joe Morehead's wagon, it was noticed that the death rattle was ringing in his throat, but the spark of life held on until the hour stated. The motive of the deed was evidently robbery. When the body was found, the entire premises were littered and strewn with the dead man's household effects. It is claimed down at Concordia that an unknown Mexican bought two dozen chickens from Sue for $8, up the road, and later followed the Chinaman to his house to rob him of the $8. The county attorney is investigating the murder.