

Death Takes Second Member Of Partnership

The death of Raymond White, son of Scott White of El Paso, Saturday, in San Francisco, came only two years after the death of his brother, who was then his partner in business on the Coast.

The brothers both died suddenly of heart attacks.

Raymond White visited El Paso about six months ago and looked up his former teachers, his friends recalled today. He always referred to El Paso as "home," they said. He was graduated from El Paso High School in 1915.

When the World War broke out, Raymond White and the late Preston Roberts, his close friend in El Paso High School, joined the U. S. Navy. Friends today told of his building up a prospering business on the Coast. When the depression came, Mr. White took a position as state comptroller of agriculture in California.
