

P I

SUN QUEEN CROWNED—Miss Anna Louise Jagoe is shown receiving the royal crown for her reign as 1946-47 Sun Queen from H. D. Fulwiler, president of the Sun Carnival Association. The coronation was held in El Paso Coliseum Saturday night, with a record crowd watching the ceremonies. Joe Hoover, escort of the Queen, is at left. (Photo by Gerlach)

G. J. as, k-

ote ing net

Sun Queen-Elect Is Typical American Girl; Likes To Cook, Can Sew, Made Swimming Team

By CECILIA NAPOLES

Anna Louise Jagoe, El Paso's 1947 Sun Carnival Queen-elect, took time out Saturday amidst the hurry and flurry of Christmas gift wrapping, dress fitting, shopping and answering telephone calls to reveal a little about herself. Miss Jagoe is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Jagoe, 3040 Wheeling Street.

Although the attractive, blue-eyed brownette has been prominently identified with social activities nearly all of her school career, anyone who thinks that she is interested merely in being a social butterfly is quite wrong. Anna Louise is a dreamy college girl who likes to read sad, sentimental poetry, sew her own clothes, cook apple pies and listen to classical music.

Tennyson is her favorite poet, but she herself has the creative ability to put her thoughts into poetry and admits she likes to write it, especially when she is in "a sad mood."

Asked if she had ever thought of submitting some of her poems for publication, she answered, "No. I just write it to put my thoughts down on paper."

She sews her own clothing without a pattern and is fond of cooking for the family. She confessed her Waterloo is baking cakes but she does all right with the pies.

"My Daddy tells me I bake the best apple pies he ever tasted," she said proudly.

The queen-elect plays the piano and enjoys listening to classical music over the radio. Her preference in composers runs to Gershwin and Bach.

All this does not mean that Anna Louise is strictly a homebody. She (Continued on Page 10. Col. 4)

'ONE MEAL, COMING UP'—Sun Queen-elect Anna Louise Jagoe, who arrived in El Paso from Southern Methodist University late Friday, took time out Saturday to cook up a quick lunch. Miss Jagoe will be crowned Paso's 1946-47 Queen at ceremonies in El Paso Coliseum Saturday night.
(Photo by Gerlac)